

FISCAL NOTE

No significant fiscal or personnel impact.

The Department of Corrections (DOC) indicated that while there would be some cost associated with the activities and materials required by the legislation, implementation of the proposed legislation will mainly impact staff time. The proposed legislation requires review and determination of eligibility for all offenders who completed his/her sentence prior to January 1, 2016. For example, the DOC was able to collect data on the total number of nonviolent felony offenders who completed their sentence in 2013, either directly from prison or completion of community supervision (both probation and parole). The total number was approximately 1,178. Also, data and information to satisfy the requirements of reviewing and determining qualifications for all inmates who completed their sentence before January 1, 2016, may be difficult to obtain due to limitations on collecting past data.
