- It requests the federal government to respect state sovereignty; to review and correct federal actions which infringe upon the right to bear arms and to recognize the impact of federal land use and natural resource development policies on Wyoming citizens.
- It requests that the federal government not regulate arms at a national level and that the Executive Department of the federal government work with Congress and the states to review and correct federal actions which infringe on the rights conferred by the second amendment and on the rights of citizens conferred independently by the constitutions of the several states.
- It also requests that the current Executive Department Administration respect the critical role that federal lands play in Wyoming's culture, recreation, wildlife, livestock production, mineral development and tourism, and the Administration and Congress work with the state to develop federal land use policies in a manner which recognizes their impacts on Wyoming citizens and implements those policies in a manner consistent with the state's and tribes' cultures.
