

FISCAL NOTE

The fiscal impact to the judicial system is indeterminable due to an unknown number of cases.

The Attorney General's Office states that if the Governor accepts retrocession of jurisdiction, there may be an indeterminate cost increase to the Division of Criminal Investigation to investigate criminal conduct in the retrocessed jurisdiction. The Law Office may also incur additional costs for attorney and paralegal time. These additional attorney and paralegal costs cannot be determined at this time.

This bill has no significant fiscal impact to the Governor's Office or to the Wyoming Military Department.
