

FISCAL NOTE

While this proposed legislation will not reduce expenditures for the Public Service Commission (PSC), it will likely reduce the existing workload marginally, if passed. However, it is difficult to quantify the effect as the number and complexity of future proceedings is unknown and the PSC will still have to process utility filings required to close ongoing obligations under the existing Reliable and Dispatchable Low-Carbon Energy Standards statute. Lastly, it is important to note that any reduction in work load the PSC may experience will not be significant enough to reduce personnel or expenditures.
