STATEMENT OF PRINCIPAL REASONS

Special Purpose Depository Institutions

In 2019, the Wyoming Legislature enacted HB 74, which authorized the chartering of special purpose depository institutions (SPDIs). These new institutions are banks that receive deposits and conduct other incidental activities, including custodial services and asset management. It is likely that many SPDIs will focus heavily on digital assets, including virtual currency and digital securities.

SPDIs resemble custody banks that operate in traditional financial markets today. The role of a custody bank usually focuses on storing assets, fiduciary management, asset transactions and providing an 'on/off' ramp to securities markets, commodities markets and customer bank accounts. SPDIs also may serve as a vehicle for business cash management, operational accounts, and any other purpose permitted by HB 74.

The Division has spent months consulting with other government agencies, law firms, the financial services industry, potential SPDI applicants and other stakeholders regarding potential rules. These discussions included fees, application requirements, incidental activities, management, receivership/resolution procedures and other provisions of the legislation that required further clarification.

Chapters 3 and 20 of the attached rules this work and are intended to address the issues most relevant to the application and chartering process of an SPDI. The Division previously adopted two sets of similar emergency rules relating to the SPDI in late 2019 and early 2020. The second set of emergency rules expires in June 2020.

The Division is moving forward with additional rulemaking now to put permanent rules in place as the chartering process moves forward with applicants. The Division will likely make amendments to the attached rules in late 2020 after development of our supervisory procedures/manuals for the SPDI.

Trust Companies

Chapter 3 of these rules also amends trust company fee provisions. The rules establish fees for the acquisition/merger of a Wyoming trust company. These fees are similar to corresponding bank fees, but in the case of the merger of two trust companies, the Division would incur fewer costs.

The Commissioner may disallow any portion of any claim by a creditor or claim of a security interest, preference, set-off or priority which is not established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner.

(g) Wyoming law relating to the nature of digital assets under title 34.1, Wyoming statutes and W.S. 34-29-101 through 34-29-103, including security interests, shall govern claims made under this section, as well as the receivership of the institution.

(h) If a person with a claim against a special purpose depository institution also has an obligation owed to the institution, the claim and obligation shall be set-off against the other and only the net balance remaining after set-off shall be considered as a claim, if the set-off is otherwise legally valid.

(j) The Commissioner shall pay expenses and claims in the following priority order:

Custodial and fiduciary assets shall be recoverable by customers in full, in the absence of institution mismanagement, misconduct or other similar activity. As used in this subsection, "designated on the institution's books and records" means the following:

(i) Appropriate segregation from institution assets; and

(ii) The structure of the custodial or fiduciary relationship meets all applicable legal requirements.

(q) Upon taking possession of a special purpose depository institution, the Commissioner shall transfer the institution's custodial or fiduciary appointments and accounts to successor custodians or fiduciaries, or if not practical, close the bank's fiduciary and custodial appointments and accounts and return assets to customers. A customer bears all risk of loss from these transactions, except for any liability of the special purpose depository institution relating to its fiduciary and trust powers. Consistent with § 3, 2019 Wyoming Session Laws, ch. 91 and W.S. 34-29-104, the lending prohibition in W.S. 13-12-103(c) shall not apply to custodial and fiduciary transactions undertaken by a special purpose depository institution to the extent that a transaction undertaken by the institution does not subject to the institution, as opposed to the customer, to credit risk.

(e) As used in this Chapter:

(i) "Failed" or "failure" means, consistent with W.S. 13-12-122(b), a circumstance when a special purpose depository institution has not:
